Last year, my family and I went to New York. On the first day, we visited the statue of Liberty. There was a very large statue. After that, we continued with lunch at a great and large restaurant. Whoa... the food were nice and very delicious, that was the best restaurant I ever met. On the second day, we walked along the street to tasted every snack at New York. On third day, we hunted the ice cream there. New York's ice cream had a very special taste, I love the vanilla and green tea flavour. People there we were very friendly, they always smile, and love to walk. They didn't love to go by car, they hate it because they love the world and they didn't want to make pollution everywhere. The benefits of walk around the city were make the body health, decrease the pollution, make the city's air were clean. I love being there. On the fourth day, we visited the New Jersey and visited the football team there. And then, we took photo with the New Jersey's team. And then, we flew back to Indonesia. We were very interested hope we can back to there again.
